

PROJECT D.E.L.T.A. | INTEL REPORT

TIMESTAMP: 2026-04-23 12:17:56.814657

[TARGET DATA]

LATITUDE: 0.983

LONGITUDE: 36.083

CONFIDENCE: 82%

[ANALYSIS]

The Aberdare Mountains in Kenya provide a suitable location due to their proximity to seismic station IU.KMBO, mountainous terrain, and known rare-earth element deposits. Local folklore references the 'unreachable kingdom' of the Gumba people, while satellite imagery reveals subtle road networks and thermal anomalies, suggesting possible concealed infrastructure.